ALBERT J. MEYERS

*A. J. Meyers,
51, Magazine
Bureau Chief*

Albert J. Meyers, head of the Africa bureau of U.S. News & World Report magazine, died of a heart attack Saturday in a Dublin, Ireland, hospital. He was 51.

Mr. Meyers was en route to the United States for home leave when he suffered the attack. He had been covering African news for the magazine since 1961. He had also been a correspondent in London, Paris, Stockholm, and Madrid.

He joined the magazine's staff in 1952 and worked for two years as a reporter on Capitol Hill before he was sent abroad.

He is survived by his wife, Nadine, who was traveling with him; and two sisters, Mrs. Warren Poltras, of Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Richard Nelson, of Woodcliff Lake, N.J.
